THATCHER'S POLICE STATE

YOUR FREEDOMS SMASHED BY ACT

BRITAIN'S traditional freedoms have been destroyed. The Public Order Act, which became law this month, is the last brick in a wall of repression built by the State in recent years to keep the British peoples in their place.

And it's not just political activists and "extremists" who will be affected. It is YOUR rights which have been taken away. You have lost your right to assemble in public; you have lost your right to march or demonstrate; you have lost your right to picket; you have lost your right to free speech; you have lost your right to publish a newsletter; you have lost your right to privacy and to use the post and telephone without "Big Brother" prying into your affairs.

This is not exaggeration. Just look at what various new laws have done to YOUR freedoms.

YOUR RIGHT TO ASSEMBLE IN PUBLIC is gone. Under the new Public Order Act, any public meeting or demonstration not approved by the police at least one week in advance is illegal. Massive fines and imprisonment will be imposed on the organizers of such activities, and it will be a serious offence even to be seen on one.

This doesn't just affect political activists. If a child is knocked down at an accident blackspot and local mothers gather to protest, they will be guilty of illegal assembly.

YOUR RIGHT TO DEMONSTRATE EFFECTIVELY is gone. Under the new law, if you notify the police about your activity (as you must), they then have the right to impose sweeping restrictions on what it must involve. The senior police officer present can now effectively ban any public gathering by using his right to decide: HOW MANY people can attend (as few as three); HOW LONG it can go on; WHERE it must take place, and WHEN it is to happen.

In any third rate South American banana republic, the government would at least have the guts to say openly that public gatherings are illegal. But in Thatcher's third rate Britain, the State is not that honest. So if you want to demonstrate for an hour outside a council meeting where a decision is being taken to build a multi-storey car-park on a local beauty spot, you are still "free" to do so. But the police can now make that "right" useless by making the demonstration take place miles away from the council meeting, the day after the decision is taken, and by restricting attendance to just a handful of people for just five minutes.

YOUR RIGHT TO PICKET is gone. The Public Order Act has only extended the repression used against picket lines during industrial disputes to every area of life as well. Thatcher's Union Laws already gave the police the power to determine how many people went on picket lines and where they could stand. Perhaps people who approved of such attacks on the rights of miners will not be quite so happy now that the Police State has been extended to cover the whole country and to deal with everybody.

YOUR RIGHT TO FREE SPEECH is gone. Under the new Race Laws which form part of the Public Order Act, it is a serious offence to say, write, broadcast or print anything which "may incite racial hatred" or which a court thinks is "intended to incite racial hatred". This is not just aimed at curbing racial bigotry. The new law is so wide that it can be used to stop ANY publicity material, on any subject whatsoever, by any organization known to have an interest in racial matters.

The main targets are the National Front and the growing "Black Pride" movement, but the law is designed to stamp out any discussion about or awareness of the racial time-bomb in Britain. Under the new law, it is an offence even to keep material which "could be used to incite racial hatred". Thus local newspaper editors who keep photographs of convicted muggers, or even people who keep a collection of already published press crime reports could be jailed for up to two years.

YOUR RIGHT TO PRIVACY is gone. The new Race Act gives the police the power to search homes and seize anything they want in the search for "racialist" material. Before, they could only ransack your house if they could show that they had reason to suspect that you had drugs, stolen goods, obscene publications or explosives on the premises. Now, the fact that you have brought this paper makes you a legitimate target for a brutal dawn raid.

The penalties for disobeying these new laws are wide ranging but the basic fine for disobeying a police officer's instruction about a demonstration is a fine of up to £400, with the penalty for organisers of such events giving instructions against that of the police being £1,000 and/or 3 months in prison.

There is also the new offence of 'Riot', which is defined as any group of twenty or more people who, "appear to threaten violence". Anyone found guilty of this new offence could face up to ten years in prison.

Large parts of the new laws are aimed purely at the National Front and many people may not see how these will be used against them in due course. But others are aimed openly at anyone who, for whatever reason, may want to organize a peaceful demonstration. These general attacks on Britain's traditional freedoms have already restricted YOUR rights more than any peacetime government has tried to do in this country for generations. Every freedom and democratic right for which our forefathers fought has been destroyed.

But PASSING tyrannical laws and ENFORCING them are two entirely different things. As long as ordinary Britons stand together in defence of their rights on the streets, and on juries as well, the State will be powerless to impose its undemocratic regime. In the special centre page slip-sheet in this issue you can read more about the State's repeated attacks on the N.F., and about what we are doing to stand up, not just for our rights, but for the freedom of every individual and organization in Britain.

Don't keep this knowledge to yourself. Tell people about what is going on. Talk about it to your family, to work-mates, on the dole-queue, at school, anywhere and everywhere. It is YOUR freedom which is under attack. It is up to YOU to help defend it.

MOVEMENT OF THE FUTURE

IN THIS article, Ian Stuart explains why the new cadre system adopted by the NF is so important.

THE NATIONAL Front is approaching a time of great change. Time and circumstances have brought about this need for metamorphosis. We have reached a stage where the only way forward is by great sacrifice.

Obviously, the extent of the necessary sacrifice means that some of our weaker members will fall by the wayside. But the strongest and most determined elements of our Movement will, as always, rally round and bring us through this time of crisis to a new beginning. At first I was doubtful about this new direction, but the more I think about it, the better it becomes.

MODERNIZE

As an unemployed person you are asked to pay £1.50 per week and on reflection slightly more than the price of a "pint" is a paltry amount to pay to modernize our Party machine. Those with jobs must pay £2.50 per week. This is hardly a great amount when you consider the benefits that it will bring to the Movement at the forefront of the fight for Race and Nation.

When you add in the extra commitments, the new "elitist" direction of the NF will mean that our members will be amongst the most strong willed and idealistic Nationalists in Europe. This will be proved by the self-sacrifice these members put into their Movement's future.

Much has been said recently about "comradeship". Now, I am in total agreement that a comrade should stand by another comrade. But I do not believe that "comradeship" should be above the ideal itself. If it were not for the revolutionary Ideal, there would not be the revolutionary Organization to be comrades in. A man may fall by the wayside, but the Ideal will never die. This must be at the very heart of our ideology.

The Ideal is above all, for the Ideal is sacred. Do YOU value the Nationalist Ideal enough to become a National Front Cadre?

PUT NOT YOUR TRUST

The Fur Coat Brigade have not offered a solution to Westminster's betrayal of Ulster.

THE IMPOTENCE of the old Loyalist politicians to launch any effective drive against Thatcher's sell-out is becoming more obvious every day. The latest stunt launched by Messrs. Molyneux and Paisley is a petition to the Queen. Nothing could show more clearly how these 'gentlemen', in spite of good efforts in the past by the Rev. Ian Paisley, have run out of ideas.

In effect, the petition calls on the Queen to press for a referendum in Ulster on the Anglo-Irish Agreement. This is absurd for several reasons. First, a referendum has in effect already been held. The overwhelming "Ulster Says No" vote made the wishes of Ulster folk perfectly clear, but Thatcher simply ignored it. Why should she take any more notice of a second vote?

NO INTEREST

Secondly, the Queen does not have the constitutional power to intervene in this way. She couldn't help even if she wanted to. And thirdly, there is no reason whatsoever to suppose that she has the slightest interest in Ulster. If she was, she would at least have been able to say something about it by now, her views could have been "leaked" to the press.

ABANDONED

But the truth is that the "British" monarchy abandoned its role as the defender of the identity and faith of the British peoples years ago. Prince Charles, with his constant promotion of multi-racialism, is only following in the inter-nationalist footsteps of the rest of his family.

To encourage Ulster loyalists to look for salvation to the Crown is a cruel and dangerous deception. Its only purpose is to create the impression that the old politicians have a real strategy to break the Agreement. But it is time to face facts and recognize that they do not.

Sign the petition by all means, but do not expect it to do any good. If Ulster is to be saved, it will not be through the efforts of Queens or wind-bag politicians, or by petitions, V-signs or the honking of horns. The only hope lies in factory occupations, VAT-strikes, rent-strikes and local community initiatives.

The only hope for Ulster lies in ACTION by the people of Ulster.

HEALTH CARE? or HEALTH CUTS!

EVERY year more than 1,200 people under 65 die from kidney disease because the NHS cannot provide them with either a transplant or a dialysis machine. This is just one shock finding of the Office of Health Economics. Other major shortcomings it identifies are:

* 1) OPEN HEART SURGERY: 3 times as many people need a life saving coronary artery bypass operation as receive it at present.

* 2) HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE: 600,000 people a year fail to receive treatment for high blood pressure even though they are liable to an increased risk of heart attack.

* 3) BABY DEATHS: 1,200 baby deaths could be avoided if measures were taken to end the situation whereby babies born to poorer families are more likely to die than those lucky enough to be born to wealthy parents.

* 4) HOSPITAL WAITING LISTS: 800,000 people are waiting to enter hospital because the NHS is forced to hold up treatment on those regarded as non-urgent cases because of lack of resources.

The motives of the OHE must be treated with some suspicion because it is a body financed by the drugs industry to research the economic aspects of health care. However it is clear to everyone who has cause to use the NHS facilities that something is badly wrong.

Undoubtedly the short term answer is increased expenditure on health care simply to start dealing with the back-log of people in need of treatment.

However there must also be some new system of health care which takes decisions and power from politicians and bureaucrats and places it in the hands of doctors and the patients.

TECHNOLOGY FUND

THANK you to all those who contributed so generously in 1986 enabling us to purchase many of the smaller items which were immediately of great assistance in the day to day work of NF News staff and other activists on national activities.

The next major items on our list are at least two computers and modems to begin to expand our writing network and ease the workload on the main computer we are using at present.

NO WASTE

The money donated to the Technology Appeal is not paying wages as all the NF staff are voluntary workers, so all the money is going on purchases of new technology and nothing else. Also the lessons of the past have been learnt and now the equipment bought is always new and not second hand or outdated equipment being sold off cheaply.

Each item is thought about and discussed carefully before the exact type and model is decided upon to ensure that the most efficient item for the job is purchased.

ESSENTIAL

It is now essential that we receive enough by the end of January to enable us to purchase those first two computers which will speed the production of NF News and reduce the very heavy workload on the individuals presently working on the paper.

It is a difficult time of year because of the expense of Christmas not far behind us, but the need of the movement is great. With your help we can maintain the incredible momentum of the Technology Fund in 1986, and start 1987 with more good progress.

The list which follows is of all those individuals who donated towards the end of 1986, make sure your name is on the first list of 1987 contributors in the next issue.

IN SPITE of an understandable drop just before Christmas, donations to the TECHNOLOGY APPEAL are still coming in at a very good rate.

But we've still got a long way to go. NF News will benefit directly from the next items to be purchased, so if you want to see Britain's only true National Revolutionary newspaper continue to improve as it has over the last few issues, dig into your pocket and give as much as you can afford.

If YOU don't bother, why should anyone else? But if you do your bit, there's no reason why we can't reach our target. The National Front demands it, Britain demands it.

I wish to donate £ . . . to the National Front's vital TECHNOLOGY FUND. I do/ do not wish my donation to be acknowledged in the next NFN.

FRONT LINE ACTION

1986 A.G.M

NEARLY 100 delegates from virtually every NF unit in the British Isles attended the National Front's 1986 Annual General Meeting at the start of November. The AGM was part of a whole weekend in the Suffolk countryside, which is the first time that it has taken place as a two day event since the 1979 AGM held in Great Yarmouth.

This made it possible to hold a series of lectures, discussion groups and video shows on NF ideology and strategy and the problems posed by the new and repressive Public Order Act. Special thanks are due to members from Havering, Barking and Sefton who helped on essential work on the premises used and to our voluntary catering staff for organizing the food and refreshments.

The AGM itself started with a discussion on the arrangements for Remembrance Day, chaired by Patrick Harrington. The overhead projector bought with money raised by the Technology Fund Appeal proved very useful at this stage. The Chairman of the Elections Department, Graham Williamson was also able to make good use of it to drive home his message of why it is essential that the National Front pulls out all the stops and contests 50+ seats in the next General Election.

CONSTRUCTIVE DEBATE

This view was unanimously approved by the delegates, who then went on to a long and constructive debate on the Constitutional changes proposed by the Directorate.

The majority of these relate to the creation of a cadre membership system and the replacement of the old NF Branch and Group structure with units of NF News Supporters.

Other more minor changes included the cutting of the Directorate from 18 to 12 places, with elections for four places occurring each year. This should guarantee that extra competition for Directorate places always produces an election, so that the cadres get the chance to elect their leadership. The Executive Council was also cut from 6 to 4.

The right of any six Directorate members to call a Directorate meeting with seven days notice was enshrined in the Constitution, thereby ensuring that never again can a corrupt Chairman try to prevent or delay a meeting of the NF's governing body in the way that reactionary fraction member Martin Wingfield had done earlier in the year.

OVERWHELMING MAJORITY

After the new Constitution was approved by an overwhelming majority, the meeting heard an inspiring address from Derek Holland and a closing speech by Directorate Chairman, Nick Griffin, which included a long and moving extract from a letter from Andy McLorie, who was unable to attend because of the bail restrictions in Ulster, at that time.

The meeting was then asked to raise £350 to pay for urgent purchases under the Technology Fund Appeal, and this amount was donated in minutes.

There is no doubt that a two day conference in the beautiful English countryside allows very much more constructive work to be done than at the traditional long afternoon AGM in some stuffy hotel room. The Directorate are therefore giving favourable consideration to the suggestion by several Northern members that the cadres be given the chance to vote on the suggestion that the date of future AGM's be changed to the August Bank Holiday weekend so that it could form part of a summer political training camp.

Such a break with the boring habits of bureaucratic political parties would mark the National Front out as a youthful movement - the Movement of the Future!

NORTH WEST

Over fifty National Front demonstrators took to the streets to show their objection to a march by the I.R.A. through Manchester city centre on November 23rd. The annual march is held to commemorate the hanging of three Fenian terrorists in 1887.

Section of NF crowd at Moston "Martyrs" march. Northwest NF units confront this insult to Britain every year.

WEST MIDLANDS

WEST MIDLANDS NF had their largest turnout of activists for seven years for the Remembrance Day Parade in November 1986. This is a result of growing interest and support throughout the whole region.

A few weeks later during one evening, units in Dudley and Brierly Hill combined for a highly successful and well attended meeting where they heard from a guest speaker from Birmingham Branch.

These units have gained in strength despite many supporters being unemployed. They are often out poster and leafletting and hold good paper-sales in Brierly Hill and Stourbridge.

On the same night in Walsall the local unit held their meeting with Directorate member Mick Turner giving a talk on the Communist and Zionist enemies, which was very well received.

Recently Walsall NF have been selling NF News in Bloxwich and Aldridge and have received encouraging responses from the public.

Meanwhile back in Birmingham on the same night 11 NF members put out hundreds of leaflets in the Hodge Hill area of Brum.

On 24th November Birmingham members held a meeting at which they observed a minute of silence in respect for the victims of the cowardly IRA pub-bombers of 24th November, 1974.

These activities are typical of the units in the West Midlands region. As one organizer said, "We get things done."

EAST LONDON

A NEW NF unit in East Ham was formed, and went into action just before Christmas. Almost from their inception, the new unit got off to a flying start.

An Anti-Apartheid meeting in Newham Town Hall, was held under an African National Congress (ANC) flag, flown from the Town Hall rooftop. During the meeting, held in the evening, the flag of the ANC, a Marxist terror organization, was 'liberated' by the East Ham NF who scaled the walls and replaced it with a Union Jack.

East Ham Organizer Dave Green, told NF News that the operation had been highly successful and that his unit would continue with this kind of peaceful and effective, publicity seeking operation.

WHAT IS TO BE DONE?

THIS column is specially designed to keep all N.F. officials well informed of forthcoming activities and to remind them of what needs to be done over the next two weeks.

All N.F. officials and activists must therefore make it a top priority to read this column carefully every issue and then to ACT on the information.

* ELECTION PREPARATIONS. Class 1 Campaigns: Hand in photos & details in on next lit. run. Pay initial £50 by Jan. 31st. Ask at Town Hall in target constituency for computerized electoral roll details. Raise funds.

Class 2 Campaigns: Raise £100 by Jan. 31st.

* LITERATURE QUOTAS. Every NFN Supporters Unit must meet its quota of 50 NFN's, 20 NT's and 25 WN's. These figures are minimums. Higher sales make higher profits for your unit and can make a significant addition to your funds. They also help get the NF message over to even more people. Don't be satisfied with your current sales - set up a new pitch in your target constituency NOW.

* N.W.A. With units saving money. for the coming General Election, donations to the N.W.A. are naturally slackening. But the police/court pressure on our activists won't slacken. Do your bit to keep the Defence Fund high enough to cope. Send 10% of each collection to the N.W.A. at P O Box 228, Manor Park, London, E.12. It's not much to your unit, but it will mean a great deal to our activists.

* ELECTION TRAINING MEETING. Sat. March 21st. All-day. All candidates, organizers and treasurers MUST attend. This meeting is VITAL.

* CADRE APPLICATIONS. Collect candidate cadre applications and hand in on next lit. run. Closing date 31st Jan.

Preston

A NEW unit in Preston is worrying the 'guardians of the system' so much that the local police are monitoring NF activity. Over recent weeks they have been analysing leaflets and newspapers distributed throughout the town.

Local Organizer John Shane told the Lancs Evening Post that, "Our next priority is schools. We will hand out youth leaflets advising teenagers what do when they leave".

Preston, as with many other Northern English towns, has the potential to become an NF stronghold very quickly, and the local unit are determined that it will.

St. Helens

THE ST HELENS unit of the NF has been gaining publicity in the local press lately for continuing their campaign of leafletting in order to get their name across to the public, and gain new recruits.

The unit's Organizer, Kevin Dean, told the local press that, "The NF will end the class and social divisions in our country. People should be judged on merit, not by wealth and class.

"We will introduce a Bill of Rights to protect everyone's democratic freedom, and we would make sure that there is opportunity for all, and privilege for none".

Editorial

NOW that 1986 has come and gone we can reflect on a year that has seen disruption and turmoil throughout the world. It was a year which saw many thousands starving and dying in Ethiopia and other African nations, due to years of Capitalist exploitation, and now their own Marxist rulers' indifference and personal greed.

1986 was a year in which we came the closest so far to a nuclear catastrophe, with all of Europe suffering various levels of nuclear contamination as a result of an explosion and near melt down at the Soviet nuclear reactor at Chernobyl.

It was a year when the USA truly earned its nickname 'The Great Satan' with its unprovoked and murderous attack against the independent nation of Libya. Later they were to accuse Syria of the same unproven charges of supporting terror attacks against Americans in Europe and the Middle East.

NATIONAL LIBERATION

It was the year that saw the 30th anniversary of the heroic Hungarian resistance to the Soviet invasion in 1956, when men, women and children opposed Soviet tanks and heavily armed soldiers with their bare hands, for the love of their nation and Europe.

1986 also saw the 7th anniversary of the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. To this day 110,000 heavily armed Soviet troops, backed by tanks and helicopter gunships, are fighting a bitter, repressive war against the Afghan nation. But after 7 years of forced exile in the mountains, the Afghan Mujahideen are still gallantly leading their people in a war of national liberation.

The same Muslim fundamentalism strengthened Iran in her struggle to end the Gulf War started by Western-backed Iraq. The powerful concept of "Holy War" also began to make a marked difference to the long struggle of the Palestinians to take their country back from Zionist occupation.

With the continued struggle of the nations of South America to put an end to U.S. exploitation, it has been a year of turmoil and retreat for the forces of Imperialism and Internationalism, both East and West, and one of advances for a Third Way.

REBIRTH

1986 has been a year of disruption and sabotage within our own movement. This has led to a rebirth and a renewed bond of Comradeship, Militancy and Purpose within the NF. We have seen an attempt by various organs of the System to disrupt postal and telephone communications and bankrupt us out of existence.

We have also seen the emergence of an irrelevant grouping of reactionaries, thieves, spies, drunks, opportunists, perverts and malcontents, and have cleansed our movement of them.

Several of our leaders and activists have been framed by the police and as a result many are beginning 1987 in prison, particularly in Ulster. This is a new form of oppression to be experienced by the NF. Members have been jailed before under the infamous Race Act, but never before has the State been forced to frame activists with Public Order offences and conspiracy charges, in order to remove them from circulation for a while.

But we have faced it, and have, so far, overcome it to emerge stronger than before.

We now have a new structure which should set us up well for the coming years. We have a fortnightly newspaper over a year before its original predicted inception, thanks to the State's repression forcing us to tighten up our organization. We have also emerged with a renewed sense of Commitment and Purpose.

This is the spirit in which we enter 1987. 1986 was the year of planning, regrouping and raising of standards. 1987 will be the year for building, the year of preparation.

IMPORTANT NOTICE; Whenever possible, hand correspondence for the NF, NF News or the Bookshops to your local NF contact, so that it can be delivered through the movement's internal postal system. This is very important when dealing with subscriptions, orders and membership payments.

If you do have to use the Post Office network, ALWAYS use RECORDED DELIVERY and keep your receipt safely.

While the constant interference with our post is irritating, this attempt to disrupt the NF is a tribute to its growing effectiveness. So rather than moaning about it, all NF members and supporters must accept the hard work and discipline needed to make our internal communications network an efficient alternative.

DEAR EDITOR

P.O. BOX 41.
NORFOLK,
NR3 2AH.

Dear Sir,

I was interested to see that in your article 'Just a Matter of Time', in issue 82 of NF News, you mentioned the May and Baker chemical factory in Norwich, and the fact that they are responsible for discharging deadly wastes, including mercury, into the River Wensum.

You said that this was threatening the whole eco-system of the Norfolk Broads. What your article did not mention was that May and Baker were also responsible during 1986, for putting the whole population of Norwich at deadly risk by contaminating the fresh water supply.

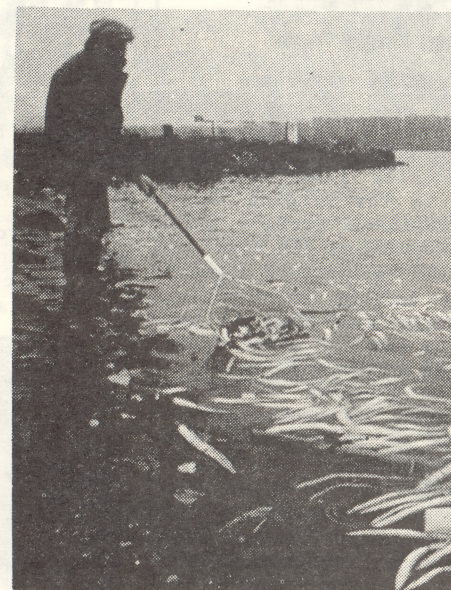

May and Baker discharged a large amount of chlorine which seeped into the reservoirs at the nearby Heigham Water Works, which serve Norwich with its fresh water.

The chlorine killed all the bacteria which purifies the water and for several days around 250,000 people used and drank untreated water.

This is probably the worst example of May and Baker's neglect and utter disregard for the environment and even for human life, but there are countless other accidental and deliberate discharges from this and similar factories throughout Britain, and we only get to hear about a small percentage of them.

I've only seen a few issues of NF News and I'm not sure what you would do about situations like May and Baker, but from what I read in your newspaper I'm sure that you would take some action against things like this, which is more than our council have done.

Yours sincerely,
Christine Burrell
Norwich

River Pollution

Dear Sir,

I read with interest the article in NF News, issue 80, entitled, 'The Rape of Britain'.

The photograph reminded me of parts of West Norfolk before the '39/45 war. Six to eight villages were destroyed to make a 'Battle Area', together with nearly twenty thousand acres of good farmland. The government promised to rebuild the villages after the war, but of course they did no such thing.

Since then a 'Yorkshire farmer' called Smith has bought up the Claremount Hall Estate at Little Cressingham. He has destroyed most of the village at Little Cressingham and the three small farms, plus about a dozen cottages. He has also uprooted fences and made the area into a prairie.

BRETON SUCCESS POINTS WAY TO CORNISH REVIVAL

IT IS not surprising to find that Brittany on the north coast of France resembles Cornwall in landscape, language and in the temperament of its people. Both these ancient nationalities share a common heritage.

What is shocking is to find that Cornwall is now suffering the economic and social problems which once blighted Brittany. In 1960 with one of the worst unemployment rates in Europe, Brittany was understandably depressed. The very existence of a distinct European culture was threatened.

Today Cornwall has an unemployment problem far worse than places like Brixton or Toxteth, and the situation is worsening. This will simply lead to more Cornish people emigrating in search of work, and thus sound the death knell for the Cornish Nation.

Yet their Breton cousins have brought about their own remarkable economic recovery. Today Brittany is one of the richest areas of France. Whereas twenty-five years ago its roads were little bumpy tracks, today it is served by fast motorways.

In 1960 most ambitious young Bretons emigrated, today Brittany is the only 'depotement' on the French mainland to show an employment and productivity gain of more than 10%, between 1976 and 1983. Brittany now controls the vegetable production of France, and it grows and sells more cauliflowers than any other European Nation.

The foundation of this 'economic miracle' is a co-operative farming movement second to none. In 1961 a small committee of farmers formed 'Sica', with the idea that small farmers would pool their produce and hand it over to agents to sell on the open market for the best price.

Every family was mobilised to work together. It was clear that many obsolescent tools would have to be discarded in favour of mechanisation and new technology, but as always there was the problem of finance.

That was where Alex Gourveme, a local pig farmer, came in, "We had too many peasants, too many foreigners in France. But above all we were blind. We closed our eyes and turned our backs to the sea. Whenever we turn our backs to the sea we become impoverished. It served us right."

So the farmers of 'Sica' clubbed together the profit from their first sales to build the ship that could transport their produce to Plymouth.

As Gourveme says, "We are nearer to Plymouth than to Paris, and Plymouth is nearer to Rennes than to London."

REPRESSION: A STORY OF EVERYDAY BRITAIN

PHIL ANDREWS FRAMED BY POLICE

NF EXECUTIVE Council member Phil Andrews is the latest victim of the fast-growing police habit of "taking out" key activists by framing them on trumped up charges. He is now serving a six month prison sentence for something he did not do.

Like hundreds of other members, Phil attended last year's National Front St. George's Day pageant in South London. The event was entirely peaceful and in the evening Phil and other NF members stayed on to attend a "White Noise" rock concert. Although no members of the public had been offended or harmed in any way by these private events, large numbers of police appeared at the end of the concert and started to push the youngsters around as they were leaving.

In spite of appeals simply to allow people to go home, the police continued trying to provoke trouble. Unjustified arrests and rough handling led to scuffles and several missiles were thrown. Phil Andrews and other NF members appealed for restraint and managed to calm things down.

ORGANIZERS

He then got on a tube train home.

Two stops later, a large number of police officers entered the train. As they did so, an Inspector pointed to Phil and his West London NF colleague Richard Baggeley and shouted "get the ones with long hair (i.e. not skinheads - Ed.) they're organizers."

One sixteen year old who was arrested outside the hall was told quite openly by the Magistrate hearing his case that if he had been at the political rally in the afternoon, as opposed to the evening rock concert, he would have been sent to prison. Instead he received a heavy fine. It would be interesting to know what law the police and courts believe makes it illegal to go to a political meeting!

Once down at the station, the police started trying to find a suitable charge to bring against them. Having no evidence, they settled for "threatening words and behaviour". Richard Baggeley later received an incredible SIX MONTH prison sentence for this, even though the police could find no member of the public who had felt "threatened" in any way.

POLICE FILES

At first it appeared that Phil

would face the same charge, but when the police files and Special Branch reports revealed that he was a very senior NF official, they decided to come up with something which would take him out of circulation for much longer.

When arrested, Phil had an unopened can of beer in his jacket pocket. One can of the same very common make had been thrown at the police outside the hall, so the police now claimed that this proved that Phil had thrown it, even though dozens of people had been drinking the same brew. They claimed that this can had hit a PC in the face, injuring his eye. Phil was therefore charged with Greivous Bodily Harm on a police officer - a very serious charge which usually leads to five or six years in prison.

MEDICAL EVIDENCE

Fortunately for Phil, the medical evidence showed that the injury was probably caused by a thrown glass, not a can. So the police forget their "GBH" lie and reduced the charge to ABH. In spite of conflicting police evidence, they managed to get a conviction.

The judge certainly did not believe the police case. This was made clear in his summing up and by the fact that he then gave Phil the minimum possible sentence for such an "offence" - a mere six months.

As a result of this frame-up, Phil spent Christmas and New Year in Pentonville prison. He should be released in March. NF comrades who have visited him report that he is in very good spirits and is determined to redouble his efforts for the National Front as soon as he is released.

As Phil told an NFN reporter who visited him inside: "They won't intimidate ME into backing down and saying that the NF can win its struggle for Britain without confronting the State. We are locked in a political war with the System, but however many they lock up, we will win if we organize and stick together."

A LESSON LEARNT

THE NF units hardest hit by the growing wave of State repression have been in Ulster. Regular NFN readers will be familiar with the case of Belfast school-teacher and NF stalwart Andy McLorie and the YNF members arrested at the same time on trumped-up petrol-bombing charges.

When they were first arrested, interrogation tricks, ignorance of their rights and the pressure of brutal beatings and threats by the police led them to make statements. As a direct result of these, the prosecution was able to create a good enough case to keep them in jail on remand for six months and to make convictions fairly likely.

So when they were told that if they "confessed" they would only get short, probably suspended, sentences, they fell for the trick and pleaded guilty. "Make our lives easy and we'll put in a good word for you" they were told by the police before the full trial. Because their illegally extracted statements had compromised any possible defence, Andy and his comrades felt that making such a bargain was their best chance of getting off lightly.

MISTAKE

They are now able to reflect on this mistake at Her Majesty's pleasure, because the prosecution then went into court and demanded the MAXIMUM SENTENCE. They were therefore quite fortunate to receive sentences ranging from one to three years.

All NF cadres must make it their duty to write letters of support to these and all other NF political prisoners. And everyone must learn from the mistakes which put them in prison.

As Andy McLorie has said ruefully since going down. "If we'd read the Arrest & Interrogation article in NFN (issue 78) we would have been released after a week without charge. Never trust the police, and never make a statement. If we hadn't made statements, we'd be free."

But in spite of everything, Andy is defiant and optimistic. "This won't stop our work for the National Front and Ulster. Many of Ulster's bravest and finest men are in prison here, so we can still do our bit by spreading the NF message among the men who really count."

POLITICAL PRISONERS

IT IS VITAL that our political prisoners know that they are not forgotten. Every NF member and supporter must make the effort to drop a few lines of support to those who have given up their freedom in the National Front's "Battle for Britain."

BEHIND THE WIRE.....

Hardline Ulster Loyalist councillor George Seawright is still in prison in the notorious H Block compound in Magilligan. He received a savage prison sentence for slightly damaging Tory traitor Tom King's car during a protest against the Anglo-Irish Agreement.

Mr. Seawright's active opposition to the betrayal of Ulster is in marked contrast to some of the more "respectable" politicians, who have as usual stirred up feelings and then kept safely out of the firing line. This is no surprise, because George has a well-earned reputation for "leading from the front" - one of his earlier exploits was going into a block of crowded flats in pro-IRA West Belfast to remove single-handed a provocative and illegal Republican flag.

He has also gained respect for maintaining his grass roots contacts. Growing political status has not led him to move out to a big house in the suburbs. George remains approachable and friendly to every friend of Ulster. He and his family still live on their home estate in working class Belfast, sharing the dangers and problems faced by everyone else.

GOOD SPIRITS

George is reported to be in very good spirits and to be itching to get back into the struggle for Ulster's freedom. His release will be a good day not just for his wife, Elizabeth, and their children, but indeed for the whole of Ulster.

The "Fur Coat" brigade may have found it expedient to "forget" about George Seawright being locked up, but ordinary Ulster people recognize a man who is prepared to stand by his principles, whatever the personal cost.

Send letters of support to George Seawright at the address on this supplement sheet. Messages of solidarity would also be appreciated by Mrs. Elizabeth Seawright at 20g Forthriver Road, Belfast, BT13 3SH.

Of course, we must also never forget that George Seawright, and the Ulster NF prisoners - Andy McLorie, Paul and Peter Bain, William McKay and Steven Patterson - are only a few of the hundreds of Ulster Loyalists now rotting in jail for their beliefs.

SEETHING ANGER

It is hardly surprising that Ulster and parts of Scotland are seething with ever growing anger against a government which totally ignores the democratically expressed wishes of a million Britons and then locks them up if they take to the streets to get over their message in the only way left open to them.

The Anglo-Irish Agreement has survived so far because of the weakness and cowardice of the old "respectable" loyalist leadership, whose rhetoric and inaction has merely encouraged futile and counter-productive violence. But time is running out for the old politicians, and for Thatcher's Deal as well. Whether presently in prison or simply biding their time, the men who will sweep them all aside are waiting in the wings.

"WATCHING THE DETECTIVES"

In a special feature for this issue, the NF Security Department takes a look at MI5 and Special Branch activity against the National Front. It reveals how NF activities are filmed by the police; how the post and telephone communications of NF members are often interfered with; how Front activities are regularly attended by plain-clothes political police, and how police informers have instigated racial attacks.

IN APRIL 1984 The Guardian newspaper published a series of articles which revealed the extent to which political groups in this country are placed under often illegal surveillance by the internal security service MI5 and the police Special Branches.

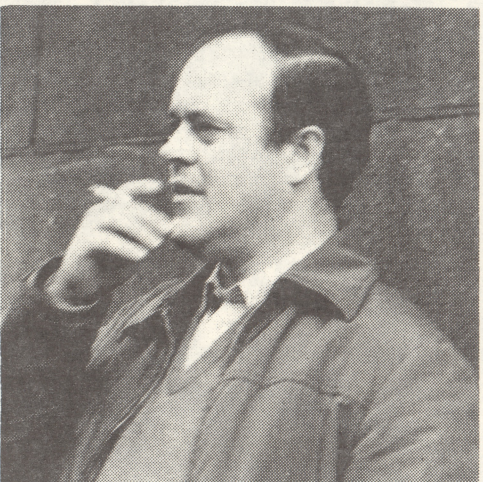

To the credit of the Guardian no attempt was made by the paper to conceal that it was not only the "left" who receive the unwelcome attentions of these State agencies - the National Front too is considered a target.

Indeed, on Wednesday, April 18th, 1984, the Guardian published a series of photographs of one particular SB officer, Mr Ray Dowd, attending public meetings and rallies organized by the NF. He had been "fingered" by the Party and soon afterwards moved on. Another SB man, known by the nickname of "Costello" moved from watching NF activities to bodyguarding the Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

Ironically he later appeared on the front cover of the satirical journal Private Eye next to Thatcher with the caption "Red Sky at Night? - Brixton's Alight!"

FILMING

Not only do the police regularly attend NF activities, they also film them. On October 19th, 1985, a National Front rally was held in Hoxton Square, East London. As members of the public approached the rally, which was entirely without incident, they were filmed by two cameramen on a building. The cameramen seemed to be particularly interested in filming the faces of

SB man "Costello."

A member of the Executive Council of the NF was later at City Road police station making a complaint. Whilst there he was surprised to see one of the two cameramen who had been filming the rally being ushered through a security door. In his hand he was carrying a police radio.

When the owners of Axcost House, a firm of Chartered Quantity Surveyors called Axtell Yates Hallett, were contacted, they wrote a letter (dated 25th October, 1985) in which they stated that they were approached by the Home Beat officer for permission to use the building. They declined to answer further questions.

The Home Beat officer for the area was at that time PC David Thomas. It is interesting to note the role played by Home Beat officers in the collection of intelligence - a role also emphasized by Metropolitan Police internal documents.

The most common method of information gathering is by the systematic monitoring of postal and telephone communications. The NF has been aware of this for some time - activities mentioned over the phone one day bring Special Branch to them the next.

On a demonstration against the then Home Secretary in 1981, Special Branch officers including "Costello" watched as NF members infiltrated a Tory meeting. Strangely, they didn't bother to tell the local cops or Whitelaw that NF activists were there - perhaps Mr Whitelaw had become unpopular as a result of his handling of the question of police pay?

NF members are also regularly treated to interruptions during their phone calls, apparently emanating from drunken SB men. At other times the telephone line is simply cut off. This interference is becoming even easier with the installation of new micro-chip technology - System X - which makes it easy to block or remove from service whole groups of telephone lines at the flick of a switch.

A complaint is currently being considered by the Interception of Communications Tribunal (P.O. Box 44, London SE1 0TX) concerning the interception of post sent to the Party's Bookshop and the monitoring of telephone conversations there.

Nor do the police confine themselves to surveillance. On the programme 20/20 Vision and also on the American TV ABC News Nightline, broadcast on February 27th 1985, an undercover police informer, Ronnie White, was quoted as follows:

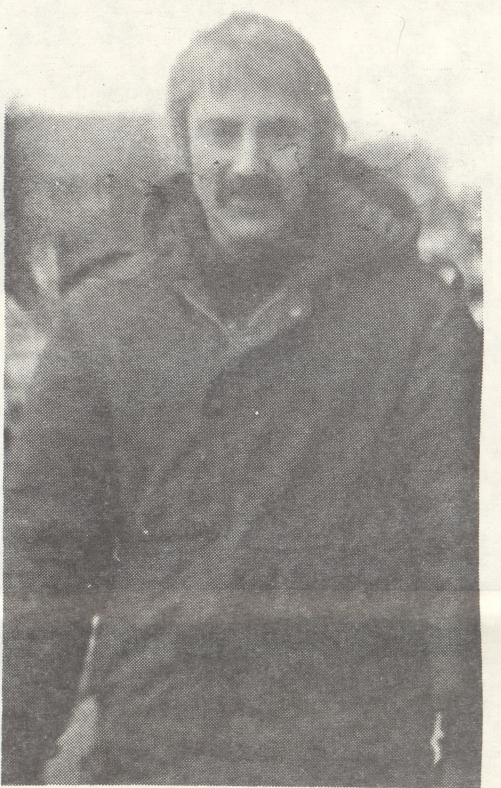

GREENFIELD (voice over): It charges that police infiltrated the right-wing National Front with agents who themselves committed violent acts.

RONNIE WHITE: We'd go in force, find a small group of coloureds and hit them with pick-axe handles.

REPORTER: And you were a witness to all this and a participant in all this?

MR. WHITE: Unfortunately, yes.

Who needs criminals or subversives with our very wonderful police force?

Ronnie Graham, alias "White".

ISSUE 39 OUT NOW

GET INVOLVED

THE NEW structure for the National Front adopted at the AGM has now come into operation. A full explanation of just how it works was published in the last issue of NF News.

The underlying aim of the new structure is to make membership of the National Front something obviously very special. Unlike involvement with any other "Nationalist" group, it can no longer be bought by anyone with a few spare pounds who fancies a bit of excitement. From now on, membership of the NF is a privilege to be earned by dedication and ability, not an automatic right.

At the same time, the activists and officials who attended the AGM knew that there are many people who, for perfectly good reasons, simply cannot put in the time, energy or money to be members under the new system. But such people can still make a very useful contribution to the Movement at local level, so a place has been found for them as well.

As a result, involvement with the National Front must now take place on one of three levels: cadre; candidate cadre, and NF News Supporter.

There is a place for every sincere Nationalist in Britain in one of these categories. You are urged to apply today for the category which suits you best. Get involved with the Movement of the Future.

I wish to register as an NF News Supporter and receive five copies of Britain's Number One Nationalist newspaper per issue. I understand that this entitles me to attend local and national NFN Supporters meetings.

No.3

The New Man

IN PART TWO of this series, it was stated that there would be no National Revolution in this country until such time as the New Man came into being; a man who would reject the ethos of the modern world in its entirety - a world engulfed in an ocean of corruption and decadence - and would embody in his every thought, word and deed the organic and spiritual values of our New World.

The importance of this New Man cannot be exaggerated, for he is at the very centre of our world view; without him Nationalism is an empty word, a dead letter. The New Man is the central pillar of our New Order - without this pillar, all of our efforts will necessarily come to nothing.

Nationalists all over the world have written a great deal on the subject of the New Man, and there remains much to be written. However, it is vital that from the start we appreciate the essential nature of this New Man: he is NOT some racially ideal, God-like figure who strides across the globe building a perfect society with the aid of an infallible logic. Rather he is an extension of everyday humanity, the very real people who live now, but he is an extension where every attempt has been made to purge human nature of its defects, of its flaws.

This is not to say that we believe in the Perfect Man, but rather that we are seeking to mould a Man who has sought to overcome himself, has sought for the good and true of his character to come to the foreground, to shine out like a beacon in the night. We cannot achieve perfection in Man, but we can and must aim for a better Man.

We must seek to create a nation of people where tendencies towards greed, selfishness, hatred, dishonesty and envy are strongly curbed, and where the compassion, generosity, love and truth that can be found in each of us is highlighted.

Make no mistake - the degeneracy of our culture and of our peoples is at an advanced stage. Half-hearted and belated measures will not stem this advance, let alone reverse it. This can only be done through the power of a positive spiritual commitment, surging through the community and through every individual.

Naturally, we cannot expect to create this New Man overnight, for it is the work of a lifetime: a talented chef, a powerful artist, an inspired poet, these are the products of endurance, patience, determination and a desire to succeed, and this is even truer of the New Man.

SMALL BEGINNINGS

Thus, we must begin this building process by tackling things that, with a little effort, are within our grasp, and which when achieved will give us the ability and the hope to succeed in greater, more weighty affairs.

We must begin by curbing the myriad little evils within ourselves, so that a fertile soil for the growth of goodness is laid. In theory this sounds the easiest thing in the world, but in practise it is the most difficult. We all know what it is like when we are tempted to do something that we know is wrong - and we all know too well how often we have lacked the will power, the moral courage, to resist this temptation.

Yet we who cannot overcome ourselves in minor things are apparently determined to overthrow a world of evil! The contrast could not be more startling.

DIFFICULT PATH

Once we admit openly that we are fundamentally weak beings - and the devastation of our once beautiful world is the most dramatic testimony of that weakness - we can set about the tremendous task of strengthening ourselves spiritually, ways that will give us the courage to face the fire and blood that the forces of evil will direct at us in the future, ways that will not change us overnight, but which will point us in the right direction.

For now, let us resolve to set out on the difficult path that leads to the New Man, and upon which our very national existence depends.

COMMUNITY ACTION

COMMUNITY ACTION seeks to help the National Front sink local roots. Indeed, we see this as a very small step along the road to establishing a whole series of NF Advice Centres throughout the British Isles.

We want to expose local council corruption and incompetence, fight closures of schools, factories and hospitals, and campaign for decent housing and social services for our people. We also carry lots of advice on what you are entitled to in the way of benefits and consumer rights etc., as the powers that be usually try to suppress such information.

We also wish to generate a climate of self-help and community pride and care which is sadly being attacked and destroyed.

If any NF News readers think that Community Action should focus on problems or initiatives in their area, or promote, give advice on, or help their campaigns, please contact us, and send us your community news and any press cuttings.

THE NEW SOCIAL SECURITY ACT

STARTING with this issue Community Action begins a serialization of the effects of the Tories new Social Security Act. Fowler's Bill epitomizes the repression that people have to face from Thatcher's Government, the most hated Tory Government ever.

This step by step guide to who is losing what, when, how and why, should be read, understood and the information passed on to the public by Community Action activists.

Industrial Injuries Scheme. The new ACT provides for severe cutbacks in industrial injuries scheme benefits:

* Industrial Disablement Benefit will now only be payable where disablement is assessed at 14% or more, except for cases of pneumoconiosis, byssinosis and mesothelioma. All future awards will be paid as disablement pensions, and disablement gratuities will cease.

* Special Hardship Allowance (SHA) will be renamed Reduced Earnings Allowance (REA) which will be payable, where the qualifying conditions are met, when disablement is at least 1%. The maximum amount of REA is set at 40% of maximum disablement pension, (currently £25.28 per week). REA will be reduced by the amount of any additional State pension or invalidity allowance to which the claimant is entitled.

Existing recipients of SHA who are over pension age, and future recipients of REA reaching pension age will be entitled to REA thereafter, only at the cash amount payable when they reached pension age.

* Hospital Treatment Allowance, Unemployability Supplement and Industrial Death Benefit will be completely abolished. Women widowed because of an industrial accident or disease will now only be entitled to National Insurance widow's benefits, but the normal contributions conditions will not apply.

The provisions affecting Industrial Disablement Benefit came into effect on 1st October, 1986. At the same time, scheme benefits were extended to UK workers injured abroad who are liable to pay UK National Insurance contributions. The changes affecting SHA are due to come into effect during April 1987.

Unemployment Benefit AN UNEMPLOYED person may be disqualified from Unemployment Benefit, and suffer a reduction in Supplementary Benefit entitlement, if s/he is unemployed through misconduct, has left a job voluntarily, "without just cause", or has failed to accept or apply for suitable employment or training, or fails to obey official instructions. The maximum period of disqualification has been extended from 6 to 13 weeks and any such period of disqualification will count as part of the 52 weeks duration of payment of Unemployment Benefit.

The reduced rates of Unemployment Benefit, Sickness Benefit and Maternity Allowance currently available to people who can only partially satisfy the National Insurance contribution conditions will be abolished. There will in the future be no National Insurance Benefit entitlement in these cases.

Also from October, 1986 the disqualification from Unemployment Benefit during industrial disputes was extended. A worker will have no Unemployment Benefit entitlement if s/he is participating in or laid off because of a dispute at their workplace unless s/he can prove that s/he is not "directly interested" in the dispute; or has become genuinely unemployed elsewhere; has resumed employment with that employer but subsequently left for another reason or has been made redundant. A worker who stops work in support of any industrial dispute is also disqualified. No person can receive an addition to his/her benefit for a husband or wife or other adult dependant if that person is or would be disqualified under the new dispute rules.

Fowler's Act takes from the needy.

U.T.V. REPORTERS I.R.A. LINKS - SHOCK

ISSUE 83

EXCLUSIVE

NATIONAL FRONT NEWS this month exposes the disturbing links between two top television news reporters and a company which produces publicity material for the IRA. The guilty men are Adrian Logan and Brendan Wright.

Logan works on UTV's highly rated 'Good Evening Ulster' programme, while Wright occasionally appears on the BBC's rival 'Inside Ulster' and is a frequent contributor to Radio Ulster's news bulletins.

Both men, the National Front can now reveal, also act as 'advisors' to a small printing business which trades under the name 'Loganprint'. They helped it secure a lucrative contract to produce glossy election literature for Sinn Fein's Danny Morrison and a blood-curdling leaflet in support of convicted Brighton bomber, Peter Sherry. Loganprint's most regular production is a weekly newspaper, the Tyrone Democrat which circulates in the Dungannon area.

This is not the first time that the NF has made such revelations. Some time ago we reported how another Journalist, Andy Pollock, then working for the BBC (and now holed-up at the ailing and libel-hit Fortnight magazine) referred to UDR soldiers as "shit" at a students' meeting in Ulster Polytechnic in 1979. Pollock's hatred surfaced again during the summer at a loyalist rally in Pomeroy, Co. Tyrone when he refused to donate to a collection for the Regiment's Benevolent Fund and was kicked off stage by a group of youths present, before being rescued, ironically, by a group of soldiers. However, these new reports are certain to interest and anger loyalists the most.

Adrian Logan's recent stint as UTV's gaelic football commentator was a direct throw-back to his days with Loganprint and the Democrat which he joined as GAA correspondent after leaving university. He quickly became editor and, with Wright as his number two, maintained the editorial line espousing the cause of Republicanism, even allowing the paper to be used for pro-IRA advertisements and chilling propaganda photographs of armed terrorists reading kneecapping warnings to the regulars in a social club.

Given the firm's clear anti-British tradition, it is hardly surprising that the Provos were eager to use its printing and technical resources for their own brand of Brit-bashing. In fact Loganprint was handsomely rewarded for printing election material for Danny Morrison's failed European Election bid and for Peter Sherry who stood, also unsuccessfully, as a Sinn Fein candidate in a by-election to Dungannon District Council - before going on to bomb the 1984 Tory Party Conference.

Both were evil leaflets which should not have been distributed by the Post Office since they were a clear incitement to violence. Sherry's even listed a number of local Building firms and a children's home - where the terrorists would strike.

Whatever the nature of the actual business arrangement between Loganprint and Sinn Fein, there is bound to be horror in Loyalist circles that a journalist fraternity that now extends to the upper hierarchy in both the BBC and UTV chapels is prepared to negotiate squalid contracts with the I.R.A.

It is obvious that now that until someone or something stops the Loganprint collaborators, terrorist atrocities will continue to be presented on our TV screens as some sort of legitimate political activity while the Loyalist Cause (and their county) will continue to be villified and blighted.

A CHANCE FOR ULSTER

A GENERAL ELECTION has been predicted for sometime this year. If there is, Thatcher will try to gain a third term to finish the job of ditching Ulster and turning Britain into America's 51st State.

As the only nationally organised British political party, the National Front will be contesting seats in all parts of the UK - including Ulster.

For the first time ever, Ulster voters will have the opportunity of voting for a positive alternative to the dithering Unionist 'leadership'.

The Anglo-Irish Agreement has shown that our old politicians don't have the courage to stand up and fight effectively for Ulster. An alternative is desperately needed.

The National Front is that alternative. However, if we are to become a serious challenge to the Establishment politicians we need money. It costs at least £1,000 to fight a good campaign for just one seat. Remember the NF isn't financed by the Fur Coat Brigade. We rely solely on the donations from our supporters.

If you want to help the Ulster National Front in our Election struggle then please donate as generously as possible.

L.P.O.W

AS REPORTED in the last issue of National Front News militant Loyalist Councillor George Seawright has been jailed for his active opposition to the betrayal of Ulster by the traitor, Tom King.

George is due for release fairly soon, and is eager to rejoin the fight for Ulster's freedom. The Unionist Establishment and the Fur Coat Brigade have turned their backs on George because his personal sacrifice has highlighted their failure to provide a realistic base for opposition to the Anglo-Irish sell-out.

All NF units and Patriotic individuals should send a message of solidarity to George. Write to: 340/86 Seawright, C Wing, H Block 3, H. M. P. Magilligan, Point Road, Magilligan, Co. Londonderry, BT49 0LP.
